

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface	XI
Acknowledgements	XIII
Dedication	XIV
List of Acronyms	XV
List of Figures and Tables	XIX
Part One: Problematizing an Evolving Partnership
1. Introduction	3
1.1. Historical Overview of the AU-UN Relations in Peace and Security	4
1.1.1. Inception of an Ambiguous Relation (From 1945 to 1992)	4
1.1.2. Revival of the UN-ROs Cooperation (From 1992 to 2006)	6
1.1.3. Operationalizing an Emerging Partnership (From 2006 up to now)	8
1.3. Objectives and Central Arguments of the Book	13
1.4. Overview of Methods, Sources, and Theories	14
1.5. Outline of the Book	15
2. Contextualizing Emerging Forms of Peacekeeping and Mediation Cooperation	16
2.1. Introduction	16
2.1.1. Peacekeeping Partnership: A New Trend in African Crisis Management	16
2.2. Mediation Partnership: Managing and Professionalizing Africa's Multiparty Mediation Environment	20
2.3. Conclusion	22
Part Two: Case studies of the AU-UN Peacekeeping Partnership
3. Darfur: Hybrid Peacekeeping, Adhocism, and Asymmetry	27
3.1. Introduction	27
3.2. The African Union Mission in Sudan (AMIS): UNAMID's Forerunner	27
3.3. UNAMID: Mandates, Tasks, and Core Dimensions of the AU-UN Cooperation	30
3.4. Facets and Complexities of Hybrid Peacekeeping in Darfur	31
3.4.1. Gaps in troop and police contingent capabilities	32
3.4.2. Integrated command and control (CC) structure	34
3.4.3. Lack of strategic approach and convergence between the AU and the UN	36
3.4.4. The AU's ambivalent role and engagement in UNAMID	38
3.5. Conclusion	40

4. Somalia: “Marriage of Convenience” in a Dynamic Conflict	43
4.1. Introduction	43
4.2. A Brief History of the Somalia Conflict: A Prelude to the AU’s Intervention	43
4.3. AMISOM: Mandates, Tasks and Modus Operandi	47
4.4. Background of the UN Support to AMISOM	50
4.5. Different Forms of the AU-UN Cooperation in Somalia	52
4.5.1. Political legitimation	52
4.5.2. The UN logistical support to AMISOM	53
4.5.3. The UN support to the AU: Institutional capacity building, planning, deploying, and managing AMISOM	57
4.5.4. Other forms of joint endeavors and coordination mechanisms	59
4.6. The Somalia Experience: Limitations, Challenges and Lessons for the AU-UN Peacekeeping Partnership	61
4.7. Conclusion	62
5. Mali: An Ambiguous Peacekeeping Partnership Revisited	64
5.1. Introduction	64
5.2. The 2012 Malian Crises: The Run-up to Regional and International Responses	64
5.3. Background and Core Dimensions of the AU-UN Peacekeeping Partnership in Mali	68
5.3.1. Political legitimation and the deployment of AFISMA	68
5.3.2. Financing AFISMA	70
5.3.3. Re-hatting AFISMA into MINUSMA: An interrogation of timing and modalities of the mission transition	73
5.3.4. Overall Reflection on the AU-UN Peacekeeping Cooperation in Mali	76
5.4. Summary of the Critical observations on Darfur, Somalia, and Mali	77
5.4.1. Differing drivers, forms, and trajectories of cooperation	77
5.4.2. Commonalities among the three cases	79
5.4.2. Emerging broad patterns and conformity of norms, doctrine, and working methods?	80
 Part Three: Case Studies of Mediation Partnership
6. The Darfur Peace Processes: Cooperation amidst Organizational Divergence	85
6.1. Introduction	85
6.2. The Abuja Peace Process: What roles for the AU and the UN?	85
6.3. Joint Mediation under Salim Ahmed Salim and Jan Eliasson	87
6.4. Joint Mediation under One Chief Mediator and the Road to the Doha Talks	92
6.5. Conclusion: Darfur’s Joint AU-UN Mediations-Insights on an Emerging Trend of Mediation Partnership	95
7. Kenya: Leveraging Comparative Advantages	98
7.1. Introduction	98
7.2. The 2007 Post-electoral Crisis: The Prelude to the Kenyan Mediation	98

7.3. Mediation by the Panel of Eminent African Personalities: Agenda, Strategies, and Achievements	100
7.4. The Kenyan Mediation: Drivers and Core Dimensions of the AU-UN Cooperation	103
7.5. The Kenyan Mediation: What Lessons for the AU-UN Mediation Partnership?	106
7.6. The AU-UN Mediation Partnership Dynamics: Critical Observations from the Darfur and Kenya Case Studies	108
Part Four: Conceptualizing Partnership
8. Partnership, Authority and Sovereignty	115
8.1. Introduction	115
8.2. Inter-organizationalism: Explaining organizational interactions	115
8.3. Multi-level Governance: Understanding Emerging Forms of Policy Making and Implementation	118
8.4. The Spatial Turn in Social Sciences: Re-spacing Authority and Sovereignty	120
8.4.1. The Spatial Turn in Social Science: A Concise summary	120
8.4.2. The Spatial Turn and Sovereignty	121
8.5. The AU-UN Inter-organizational Partnership and Governance	123
8.5.1. Scales and Actors in Decision Making	123
8.5.2. Dispersal of Authority and Decision Making	125
8.6. Inter-organizational Partnership and Changing Sovereignty Structures	131
8.6.1. Disconnected claims to and effective practice of sovereignty	131
8.6.2. Coexisting regional and national forms of sovereignty	132
8.6.3. Voluntary surrender of sovereignty and resistance	134
8.6.4. One or multiple forms of sovereignty?	135
8.7. Conclusion	135
9. Conclusion and Implications	138
9.1. Introduction	138
9.2. Defining Features and Rationale of the AU-UN Inter-organizational Partnership	139
9.3. Drivers of Cooperation Dynamics	142
9.3.1. Exigencies of the specific conflicts	143
9.3.2. Shared understanding of and approach to resolving conflicts	144
9.3.3. Strategic interests of the “Great Powers”	145
9.3.4. Leadership by one of the two organizations	146
9.3.5. Clarity and consistency of the AU’s engagement	146
9.4. Overall Reflection on the Variables Explaining Cooperation Variance	147
9.5. The AU-UN Relations: Redefining Chapter VIII of the UN Charter	149
9.6. The AU-UN Relations: Diverse Theoretical Implications	151
9.7. Future Research Avenues	153
References	156
Sources	166
Annex	171